

Kids Helping Kids

Top Row: Steve Battino, Bob Eslick, Executive Director of Kids Helping Kids, Kerri Sneden, Director of Development at MercyFirst, MercyFirst CEO, Gerard McCaffery, Alex Lafontant, MercyFirst Staff

Bottom Row: Paul Eberenz, Mitsu (Therapy Dog at MercyFirst), Richard A., MercyFirst Resident, Philip Eslick

Over 100 designer sweat suits and winter jackets were donated to the residents at MercyFirst this winter season, thanks to the generosity and dedication of Kids Helping Kids "Making a Warmth of Difference" apparel program. The program obtains new high-end winter apparel including jackets, sweat suits, hats and gloves from the manufacturers which are then donated to children in need. The residents at MercyFirst were thrilled to un-wrap the brand new designer items during the holiday season. Kids Helping Kids feels that every child deserves to open a brand new winter coat on Christmas morning. Children of all ages love wearing the latest designer trends and thanks our friends at Kids Helping Kids the residents at MercyFirst had the opportunity to feel special by receiving this generous gift.

